The Fusion™ Foot Function without compromise

For folks like Tim, amputation simply can't mean a decrease in activity level. Taking care of family, property, and neighbors is part of daily living with no room for compromise. A prosthetic foot with anything less than exceptional functionality is out of the question.

The Fusion Foot's integrated design allows every part of the foot to work together in harmony instead of as independent components. Smooth heel-to-toe motion, significant inversion/eversion, strong energy return, and vertical shock compression all combine to give active amputees the performance they need.
